The Early Years: A Spark Ignited

Attila Balogh's love for guitars began at an early age. Growing up in Hungary, he was captivated by the sound of the instrument, spending countless hours listening to his father's record collection and strumming on a simple acoustic guitar. It was during this time that the seeds of his future passion were sown.

In his early 20s, Balogh moved to the United States, where he enrolled in the prestigious Roberto-Venn School of Luthiery in Phoenix, Arizona. It was here that he honed his skills under the guidance of master luthier Robert Benedetto, who became a significant mentor and inspiration.
