

Downsizing the Silver Tsunami

The Senior Housing Crisis is Coming

The Silver Tsunami is a term used to describe the aging of the baby boomer generation. As these baby boomers reach retirement age, they are beginning to downsize their homes and move into smaller, more manageable spaces. This is creating a huge demand for senior housing, and the supply is simply not keeping up.

As a result, the cost of senior housing is skyrocketing. In some areas, the cost of assisted living has increased by more than 50% in the past decade. This is making it increasingly difficult for seniors to afford the care they need.

The Silver Tsunami is not just a problem for seniors. It is also a problem for their children and grandchildren. As seniors downsize, they often need help from their families. This can put a strain on relationships and finances.
