Keni was born in 1968 in the small town of Marlow, Oklahoma. He was the youngest of four children, and his family was very poor. Keni's father was a sharecropper, and his mother worked as a waitress. Keni grew up in a house without running water or electricity, and he often had to go hungry.

Despite the challenges he faced, Keni was a determined young man. He was a good student, and he excelled in sports. Keni also had a strong sense of patriotism, and he always dreamed of serving his country.

In 1986, Keni's dream came true when he joined the U.S. Army. He quickly rose through the ranks, and in 1990 he was assigned to the 5th Special Forces Group. Keni was a natural leader, and he soon became one of the most respected soldiers in his unit.

In 1993, Keni was deployed to Somalia as part of Operation Restore Hope. He was involved in some of the most intense fighting of the operation, and he was awarded the Bronze Star for his bravery.

In 2001, Keni was deployed to Afghanistan as part of Operation Enduring Freedom. He was involved in the Battle of Tora Bora, and he was awarded the Silver Star for his actions in combat.

In 2003, Keni was deployed to Iraq as part of Operation Iraqi Freedom. He was involved in the Battle of Fallujah, and he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his heroism in combat.

Keni served in Special Forces for 26 years, making him the longest serving team soldier in American history. He was involved in some of the most intense fighting in recent history, and he was awarded the nation's highest military awards for his bravery and sacrifice.

Keni's story is an inspiration to all who serve their country. He is a true American hero, and his story is a testament to the courage, determination, and sacrifice of the men and women who serve in our Armed Forces.

Keni's book, My Story As The Longest Serving Special Forces Team Soldier In American History, is a must-read for anyone who wants to learn about the sacrifices made by our military men and women. It is a powerful and inspiring story that will leave you in awe of the courage and resilience of the human spirit.
